Dear Mr. & Mrs. Mann,

Your past support of the Tri-Valley Conservancy (TVC) made it possible for TVC to continue to focus on permanently preserving lands to keep the Tri-Valley's rural character, scenic beauty, and diverse environmental resources. We simply couldn't have done this without your past generosity. With your help, over 4,100 acres of agricultural lands, vineyards, open space and trail corridors are preserved in perpetuity.

Your last gift to TVC was $125 on November 26, 2007. I'm writing to ask you to renew and increase your donation today, and help us with our most important work that lies ahead of us.

Tri-Valley Conservancy is the only land trust in Alameda County. Critical unrestricted funds are needed to expand conservation and stewardship programs throughout the Tri-Valley and sustain efforts to preserve your natural heritage for generations to come.

We bring credibility, expertise and experience in growth management to regions of the Tri-Valley that are particularly vulnerable to urban sprawl. Many scenic rural areas, farmlands, ranches, and wildlife habitats have been damaged or destroyed by subdivision and development projects that did not take into account natural and agricultural priorities and values.

We believe that the best development occurs when it is done hand in hand with the preservation of lands that provide for safe drinking water, productive farmland, and scenic beauty. Preservation of agricultural lands and natural open spaces in your area is vital to protecting your quality of life. We rely on contributions from private individuals like you who want to preserve open lands for future generations, by helping to expand our conservation programs.

Tri-Valley Conservancy will work to preserve lands that will allow people to hike, bike, and walk throughout the hills and vineyards to enjoy the land and promote long-term stewardship of local lands that will result in safeguarding agriculture and water resources of the Tri-Valley area.

If you believe that the beauty and integrity of Tri-Valley should be preserved, you will understand the urgent need to save the unprotected areas that surround your community. Please use the enclosed envelope to respond, and renew and increase your donation to Tri-Valley Conservancy, today!

Best regards,

Sharon Burnham
Executive Director
